

ALLORAH'S INSIGHTS

August 11, 2008

Courage is not the absence of fear but rather the gumption to "go for it" even as fear may be over taking you. Gumption has many forms; such as faith, hope, anger, even having a greater fear of something else. Often courage is simply the expression of sheer will, either to do a thing or to resist a thing.

Courage is important because it is one of the key factors in manifesting our dreams. It finds us "legs" to keep moving. Generally, our dreams are just far enough beyond our habitual grasp as to be out of reach unless we grow and change. We always know that change is inevitable. The growth part of the equation is greatly up to us being willing to surrender to the process while remaining conscious and present as much as possible.

Myownpersonalgod.com was created to support the manifestation of each of your dreams. The pursuit of our dreams is the way in which we evolve. Our spiritual nature fills us with desire in order to put us on the path to growth. Humans often try to think or reason their way through a thing only to miss the whole point of being human. Dream, desire; surrender to the holy parts of yourself that urge you forward in life. Try to resist getting caught in the strategic orchestration and planning of how the dream unfolds, lest you find yourself paralyzed by the unknown or worse; by that which you cannot control.

Courage is not the absence of fear of the unknown; but rather our surrender to infinite possibilities.

Namaste,
Allorah